Welcome to exhibit at the new international business platform in Moscow 2013

The Market

Russia's economic growth in the forestry, pulp and paper sectors as well as the development of industry production has resulted in increased demand for advanced technologies, innovative solutions and modern equipment.

The investment climate in Russia is now appealing for large-scale projects in the pulp and paper industry and the conditions are favourable for the realisation of ambitious business ideas. Russia has considerable raw material potential (about 25% of world reserves) and current government approved investment worth over 80 billion rubles.

The Event

IPX Russia is a new exciting international business platform with companies exhibiting machinery, equipment, accessories and raw material for the pulp and paper related industries. High quality industry professionals across all relevant sectors will be invited to the event creating excellent business opportunities.

A top level technical conference as well as a number of social activities will take place alongside the exhibition to ensure you stay on top of the latest news and get invaluable networking possibilities.

IPX Russia will be part of the well established and reputable Moscow International Forestry Forum.

The Organisers

IPX Russia is a joint venture between Adforum, the world's leading organiser of international pulp and paper events, and Restec Brooks Company, a subsidiary of the Restec Exhibition Company, the leading exhibition organiser in Russia.
